In 2022, Rodney Curry made history as the inaugural head men's basketball coach for Omega Sports Academy International (OSAI). Under his leadership during OSAI's basketball season, Curry steered the team to a commendable 7-5 record, showcasing remarkable victories against Fort Lauderdale Prep and Saints Prep in every encounter between the teams. The season commenced with a strong 4-0 streak, ultimately concluding with a 4-3 performance, marking an overall successful 7-5 season.

Prior to his role at OSAI, Curry served as an assistant coach at Atlantis University in Miami, Florida. In this capacity, he played a pivotal role as the strength and conditioning, as well as player development coach. His contributions were instrumental in shaping Atlantis University's program for the 2022-2023 season. With a coaching tenure exceeding 20 years, Coach Curry has dedicated himself to developing and training high school players who have successfully transitioned to the collegiate and professional levels.

In 2012 Curry attended Galilee College with a focus on Business Administration and Leadership, Curry holds diplomas in Psychology and Sports Coaching. Recognized as a certified FIBA Level 2 basketball coach, an IAAF Level 2 track & field coach, and a USAB Gold license coach, his diverse skill set reflects his commitment to excellence. Before venturing into college basketball coaching, Curry contributed significantly to the Bahamas junior National Track and Field team, achieving notable success in sprints and relays, and aiding in the prequalification of the men's 4x100m relay team for the 2012 London Olympics.

Coach Curry's impact extends beyond track and field, evident in his distinguished high school basketball coaching career. Having amassed over 200 wins with 65 losses, clinching eight championships, making two elite 8 HS tournament appearances, and receiving multiple coach of the year nominations, his coaching prowess is undeniable.

Beyond the court, Coach Curry is a devoted family man, currently married to his wife Tabitha Curry, a former basketball standout in the state of Georgia, and the proud father of five wonderful children.

Combining a strong foundation in faith, extensive coaching experience, and a winning mindset, Coach Curry brings a unique blend of Godly principles and on-the-court expertise to the Omega Sports Academy International basketball team, cultivating a culture of success and fortifying a resilient mindset within the players.
